

Breyana Pounder has been passionate about dance since she was a little girl. She began her dance journey at the age of five through liturgical dance at Bethel A.M.E. Church in Memphis, Tennessee. Today, she serves as the leader of the church's dance ministries. Throughout the years, Breyana has had the opportunity to minister through dance at MCAM, Annual Conferences, Church Programs, Youth and Young Adults Annual Conferences, RAYAC Annual Conferences, and many other special events. Her love for performing and ministering through dance has continued to grow throughout her journey.

At the age of six, Breyana also began cheering, which opened even more opportunities for her to inspire and lead others. She is the proud owner of Royal B. Cheer and Dance Company in Memphis, Tennessee. Through her company, she helps children throughout the city develop their skills in cheer, dance, tumbling, stunts, and competition while building confidence, discipline, and teamwork. She also works closely with schools to support and strengthen their cheer and dance programs, helping young athletes discover their talents and passion.

One of Breyana's greatest blessings is her beautiful seven-year-old daughter, who was born at 23 weeks and continues to overcome every obstacle placed before her. Her daughter's strength and determination inspire Breyana every day to keep pushing forward. For Breyana, dance is more than a hobby—it is her passion and purpose. Helping children develop the same love, confidence, and excitement for dance that she has is her daily goal, and she strives to make a positive impact in every child and adult's life through encouragement, leadership, and faith.
